DELEGATES NAVAL PARLEY ARRIVED HOME Given An Enthusiastic Welcome In New York Today

By HARRY FERGUSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, April 29—(UP)—Secretary of State Stimson and his colleagues of the American naval conference delegation came back to their native shores today with a treaty that Stimson said "will mean a long step forward from the Washington arms treaty."

To the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Home, Sweet Home," the quartet who had labored long and valiantly in London to achieve a new step in the world's moves for peace came to the metropolis aboard the giant U. S. liner Leviathan, were taken aboard on the city's welcoming tug Macom, and put ashore later to receive a nation's plaudits through the spokesmen of its largest city.

Given Great Welcome
Throats sired down the bay gave the men of peace a welcome, and the city turned out its greeting forces to receive them home in honor.

At city hall, uniformed police were massed for the reception for which Stimson had ready a speech which amplified his initial remarks aboard the Macom.

"We are bringing home a treaty which we believe will mean a long step forward from the Washington treaty," he said. "That treaty as you recall, left destroyers, submarines and cruisers unlimited. After several attempts the London conference has succeeded in ending competition on all types of crafts among the United States, Great Britain and Japan. We are very happy to be home."

TO CALL ADAMS FIRST
Washington, April 29—(AP)—Secretary Adams will be the first witness in hearing by the Senate Naval committee on the London naval treaty.

Chairman Hale of the committee has said the provisions of the London agreement would be examined closely.

The Secretary of the Navy will be questioned in detail.
Informed by President Hoover that he will transmit the London pact to the Senate immediately upon its arrival here, Senate leaders are preparing to give it early consideration.

Secretary Adams was one of the America delegates to the parley. Senator Hale, who has been apprehensive that the London treaty forces a change in policy by the American Navy in favor of light cruisers at the expense of this nation's program for 10,000 ton ships, wants to ask the Secretary about this especially.

Chairman Borah of the Foreign Relations committee, also has announced open hearings will be held by his committee. Senators Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, and Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, of the American delegation are both members of this committee.

Chairman Bristow of the House Naval Committee also has said his group would hold hearings to ascertain just how the treaty would affect American naval forces.

Preparatory to the hearings by the Senate naval group, there were placed in the committee room today wooden models of the eight inch gun turrets allowed on the 10,000 tons cruisers and the six inch gun turrets allowed on the light cruisers. The models were prepared by the Navy Department.

Only 39 percent of the world tonnage of ships depends exclusively on coal.

Some high class talent has been promised for the Dixon entertainment, including three plays by a company of talented actors—"The Enemy," "Back Home and How"

HEAD OF UNITED STATES CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IN WARNING AGAINST 'BAITING'

Some Oddities In Wire News Today From Various Parts

FIREMEN RESCUE BIRD

St. Paul, Minn., April 29—(UP)—It took the combined efforts of a fire company and a small boy to rescue a robin from death by accidental hanging here. The robin became entangled in a piece of twine, attached to a small twig high up in a tree.

Residents were unable to free the bird so they called on engine company No. 13. A fireman propped a ladder up against the tree but the branches would not hold his weight.

A small boy was pressed into service, the firemen holding the ladder upright while the lad climbed up and freed the bird. But when the robin was rushed to a drug store for emergency treatment it was found its leg was fractured and it was necessary to put it out of pain.

WORKED ON SYMPATHIES

Springfield, Ill., April 29—(AP)—Working on the sympathies of three Springfield merchants, a swindler cashed three checks for $32.50 each here yesterday. At a florist shop he wrote a card "for the dearest mother in the world." The fraud was discovered when the woman addressed disclaimed the pretended son.

Next the man rushed into a shoe store for stockings for his sweetheart.

He apologized profusely for neglecting to cash a check before the banks closed. He presented another check for $32.50. The next check for the same amount was passed at a haberdashery.

The young man made a good day of it, police reported, and evidently went on to the next city on his list.

STORY TOO REALISTIC

Albany, N. Y., April 29—(UP)—If Howard Bennett had stuck to his fish stories, nothing would have happened. As it is, he will be laid up with a gunshot wound which he received when he told his son, James, of his heroic combat with a bear.

James is convalescing from an illness in a hospital here, and his father's story of the bear helped him along wonderfully.

"And on came the bear. Twenty feet, 15, 10. His ponderous paws were ready for a killing blow," recited his father. "I raised my rifle coolly, took aim, fired, and he dropped into the dust, right at my feet." James was excited.

"Let me take the rifle," he begged. The weapon was passed over. James took it coolly, as his father had done, but did not aim it as coolly, and—bang!

Bennett is expected to recover from a slight wound in the side.

Anamosa, Ia., April 29—(AP)—Mrs. Tilda Miner of Olin will be returned to the Woman's reformatory at Rockwell City today to continue serving a life sentence for poisoning her husband Edward Miner. A new trial was denied the woman yesterday by District Judge H. A. Ring.

Albert Hartwig, who confessed that he bought the poison for Mrs. Miner, is still in the county jail awaiting trial on a first degree murder charge next September.

and "Tea for Three"; two lectures, one of which will be delivered by Prof. Wallace of the United States Department of Agriculture, who will speak on "Birds"; The International Concert Opera Co., headed by A. Baas, internationally known baritone, which will present Gounod's "Faust" in tabloid form; Dixie Merry Makers and the Fay Epperson Ensemble.

These are but a few of the attractions which will appear here during the chautauqua, the dates of which will be announced definitely in a short time, and the complete program of talent will also be made public as soon as the program-builders of the chautauqua association can arrange the dates.

New Economic Age Is Predicted By Wm. C. Butterworth

By CARROLL KENWORTHY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, April 29—(UP)—A new economic age based on cooperation and guided by comprehensive research was foretold today by President William C. Butterworth of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce in a key-note speech to 3,000 business leaders attending the Chamber's annual meeting.

The speaker forecast "greater destinies" for American business and warned against "business baiting" by law-makers and government authorities.

"The one-man show, the self-willed Napoleon of industry whose whims and prejudices influenced affairs is today an anomaly. He belongs to a past as remote almost as the day when great issues could be decided by a duel to the death of a David and Goliath," the speaker said.

"Domination with its order-giving and decrees is giving way to an intelligent, cooperative leadership which makes for orderly well-planned advance."

The speaker placed great faith in the mobilization of facts about all industry. Referring to efforts along this line begun last fall by President Hoover's business survey conference, he said:

"These are the facts which give businessmen the knowledge and the vision and courage which must always characterize business in its mood of achievement."

Butterworth also stressed the importance of a high standard of living and a more equitable sharing of business profits. He urged business to avoid baiting at the hands of lawmakers and other government authorities.

Auto, Eggs, Suit

Loot In Robberies

Thieves were again active in Dixon during last night and three robberies were reported to the police for investigation. At 10:30 last night, W. F. Selover, reported to the police the theft of three cases of eggs which were taken from his truck which was parked on Assembly Place in front of the Henry Bott residence. The eggs were valued at about $20.

Kenneth L. Glassburn this morning at 7 o'clock reported the theft of a suit of clothes, a top coat and slicker which were taken from his car at 401 Galena avenue. Police were attempting to locate a couple who were suspected of having taken the clothing and then left the city in an automobile.

Paul Kopecek, 631 Willet avenue, this morning reported to the police the loss of his model A Ford roadster which was removed from the garage at his home during the night. The car bore Illinois license plates, 623-453. He had driven the car into the garage, but failed to lock the garage doors or remove the keys from the ignition switch of the car.

WEATHER

PEOPLE WHO ALWAYS BLOW THEIR OWN HORNS BRING THE MOST MONOTONOUS TUNES!

The sky was blue one moment, as we were flying more than three miles above the earth, but the next moment the cloud had formed," said J. M. F. Haase, United States Navy photographer. "A moment later a roaring wind swept the black cloud away."

The eclipse caused a noticeable drop in temperature to the scientists on the ground. As the sky darkened the air became chill and an unearthly silence awaited the spectators.

As the moon moved across the face of the sun, astronomers of Lick Observatory and other scientists obtained an almost unobstructed view from vantage points near Honey Lake in northern California.

Hundreds of photographic records were made by the expeditions, the most comprehensive ever gathered to photograph an eclipse.

The brief totality of the eclipse, 13 seconds, did not shut off the sun's light for a sufficient length of time to permit taking of the sun's corona as in past eclipses.

Trusty Gets Away

Leavenworth, Kas., April 29—(AP)—Leonard B. Lancaster, alias George W. Parish, 29, serving eight years from Danville, Ill., for forgery, escaped from the federal penitentiary Sunday and has not been captured.

Lancaster, a trusty on detail at the Officers' Club, where prison guards gave an entertainment Saturday night, took the receipts from the entertainment, amounting to $80, and drove away in a prison automobile. He entered the penitentiary in September 1927.

WILL CARRY REV. WILSON CASE TO SUPREME COURT

Chief Of Counsel For Men- dota Preacher States Plans

The Supreme Court of Illinois will be asked to pass upon the evidence in the case in which Rev. James A. Wilson, Methodist minister of Mendota, was Sunday morning found guilty of shooting Amos Elliott, church sexton, after the jury had deliberated 21 hours and cast 29 ballots. Attorney C. E. McNemar of Peoria of the clergyman's defense, and who was in Dixon yesterday in behalf of William McReynolds, on trial in the Lee County Circuit Court on a charge of burglary, made the statement to a Telegraph reporter before he left for home.

"The instructions to the jury alone are ample to call for a reversal," Mr. McNemar stated this morning. "The State's Attorney slopped over all the way through the case and exceeded himself in the instructions to the jury. We will ask for a new trial and in the event that this is not granted, will take the evidence before the Supreme Court. The evidence is in fine shape for the Supreme Court and we feel very confident."

CONTINUE SALARY.

Mendota, Ill., April 29—(UP)—Despite the fact he is in jail awaiting sentence for the attempted murder of his sexton, the Rev. James A. Wilson will continue to be known as the pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church here and will receive his salary regularly.

"Nearly all the members of our church believe he should have been acquitted," said Mrs. Charles Powell, church treasurer, in announcing that his salary of $150 a month will be placed in the bank for him "until the Methodist District Superintendent orders the practice discontinued."

Amos Elliott, the sexton, probably will be dropped from the church payroll because he has been incapacitated since he and his wife were shot by the pastor after they refused to part with an indiscreet letter the minister had written to a widow of his congregation.

WIND ENABLED

SCIENTISTS TO FILM ECLIPSE

It Swept Black Clouds Away At Opportune Minute Monday

San Francisco, April 29—(AP)—Photographs of a celestial phenomenon, the eclipse of the sun by the moon, available to posterity today, thanks to a roaring wind which at the critical moment swept aside a black cloud which had obscured the view.

The black cloud, apparently formed by mist in the frigid air, startled scientists and their aviator assistants along the line of totality, stretching eastward across the Sierra mountains from just north of San Francisco. Shouts of bitter disappointment greeted the dark blotch, but a moment later a strong wind swept the cloud away and scores of cameras photographed the eclipse.

"The sky was blue one moment, as we were flying more than three miles above the earth, but the next moment the cloud had formed," said J. M. F. Haase, United States Navy photographer. "A moment later a roaring wind swept the black cloud away."

Unidentified Hero Prevented Suicide But Lost Own Life

New York, April 29—(UP)—Frank Santonici, 17, was in a hospital today with a broken leg after an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide, but an unidentified youth who saved Santonici's life was dead.

Despondent because he had failed to get work, Santonici threw himself on the tracks in front of an express train pulling into a subway station. The other youth, attracted by screams of women, jumped to the tracks and threw him aside, but was killed himself before Motorman Joseph Brennan could stop the train.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning from the home of his son Harry E. Wheat, 1252 South Walnut avenue, Freeport, with Rev. D. L. McNary, pastor of the First Presbyterian church officiating. Interment will be made in the city cemetery.

Was Near Death

From Poison Gas

Aaron Hoogenstyn, 711 First street, was the victim of monoxide gas poisoning Monday morning while repairing an automobile in the garage at his home and will be confined to his bed for several days recovering from the effects of the poison gas, but was reported to be resting quite comfortably today.

The young man was working in the garage and closed the doors when he became chilled. The motor of car was running as he was making alterations and he was stricken by the fumes. His mother saw him stagger from the garage and fall to the ground unconscious. She rushed to his aid and assisted in getting him into the house where physicians worked for some time before he was out of danger. The young man was in an unconscious condition for several hours and experienced a narrow escape from meeting his death by breathing the monoxide fumes.

Hold Two Theories

In Death Of Nurse

Chicago, April 29—(AP)—Two possible causes of the death of Mrs. Belle Hoffman, Superintendent of Nurses at the Auburn Park hospital were brought out at the inquest yesterday. One was the possibility of suicide of a love affair, and the other an accidental overdose of a drug taken for a chronic disease.

She was found dead Sunday night in a room in the Fort Dearborn hotel. Her body, clad only in a chemise and wrapped in a blanket, was lying across the bed. On a nearby table was a bottle containing dregs of a drug, and search of her pocketbook revealed a hypodermic needle.

The inquest was continued until May 13 in order that an analysis of her viscera may be made.

HEELPRINT ON FLOOR NEAR MRS. PALMER'S BODY AFTER MURDER NOT THAT OF FRIEND

Authorities Have New Clue In Death Of Women Friends

Laguna Beach, Cal., Apr. 29—(UP)—A heelprint on the blood-stained floor near where the body of Mrs. Doris Murray Palmer, beautiful social leader in this artists' colony, was found last week caused Sheriff Sam Jernigan of Orange county to study the double tragedy from a new angle today.

The mark, according to authorities, was found soon after the bodies of Mrs. Palmer and her close friend, Mrs. Guy Bates Post, were discovered in Mrs. Palmer's bungalow.

At the time, investigators believed the print was made by the slippers of Mrs. Post, whom they decided shot Mrs. Palmer and then took her own life in a jealous rage.

Measurements revealed last night, however, that the heelprint had been made by some other woman who stood near the artist's body after the shooting.

Probe New Clues.

Sheriff Jernigan said the new clue in the deaths of two of the famous colony's most prominent women would be thoroughly investigated.

Earlier in the day officers found that two women, hitherto unconnected with the affair, had visited the bungalow after the tragedy and prior to the visit of Verner Rush and Mrs. Kenneth Brown, who called a physician.

Coroner Brown said that a woman had called him and asked for two pairs of gloves that had been found in the bungalow and accepted as property of Mrs. Post and Mrs. Palmer. She told him, he said, that she and a companion had entered the house, only to flee at the sight of the bodies.

It was not known if the new information would affect a verdict of the coroner's jury, which found that Mrs. Post shot Mrs. Palmer in the back and then killed herself in remorse.

The Sheriff dismissed the theory of a suicide pact after Attorney Moresly White refused to turn over to authorities a purported letter in which he said there was evidence of a "death pact" between the two women.

May Hold Sheriff

For 'Legger's Death

Dubuque, Ia., April 29—(AP)—An inquest today will determine largely whether charges will be filed against Sheriff Joseph Greer, Grant county, Wisconsin officer, who shot and fatally wounded Edward Foht, 36, alleged moonshiner, in a prohibition raid. Foht died late yesterday.

County Attorney Manfred S. Block said that the county inquest would not be binding and that if the coroner's jury should exonerate Greer from blame, relatives of Foht could file charges.

The shooting occurred in a raid last Thursday in which Foht and a companion were apprehended landing on an island in the Mississippi river near here, having a still in their possession. As Foht attempted to escape, officers said, the Sheriff shot, the bullet lodging in Foht's brain.

Greer claims that he did not aim directly at the man but to one side and that the bullet glanced against a tree before striking Foht. Friends of Foht have not accepted the Sheriff's alibi.

Coolidge Tribute

To William Butler

Boston, April 29—(UP)—Under Calvin Coolidge's signature, the Boston Herald today carried a two-column article in which the former President paid glowing tribute to William M. Butler, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator.

Coolidge, long-time friend of the former Senator and former Chairman of the Republican National Committee, did not refer to the Senatorial race, but in political circles the article was generally regarded as an endorsement of the Butler candidacy.

PRISON GUARDS FIRE TO QUELL UNRULY THUGS

"Don't shoot again unless they try to break through the door."

Meantime firemen atop the roof deluged the prisoners with water.

A prisoner shouted "back to your cells, everybody," and there was a general rush for refuge.

Adjutant General Harry Reynolds, meantime, ordered three companies of infantry and a Howitzer platoon to the scene.

Guard Captain Jefferson Henderson, who with Broyles, was inside the cell block when the shooting broke out, escaped uninjured.

The disorder was over in an hour and with Colonel Haubrich in control, the prisoners started marching to the mess hall for lunch.

Guard Captain Thomas Broyles was in the strife-cell block when the shooting started.

He rushed out amid defiant shouts of convicts.

"You're shooting helpless men," they cried. "Come in and shoot the rest of us."

Another guard was reported inside the block.

Troops Called In Troops of National Guardsmen and Naval Reserves waiting beyond the wall, were rushed inside.

Machine guns were mounted. Reports from inside the cell-block said more than one hundred prisoners were wounded.

A machine gun company was ordered to the scene from Ft. Hayes, regular Army post.

Convicts starting the demonstration became angered over the presence of city firemen, who last night trained hoses through holes chopped in the cell-block roof to quiet the men with streams of water, if necessary, it was said.

Resistance died down as the firing ceased and the prisoners crowded the cell-block guard room door, apparently trying to get out of range. Others sought refuge in their cells.

Two stretcher crews from a National Guard unit entered the cell-block at 10:30 A. M.

There were 1,300 convicts in the block range where sporadic out-breaks have occurred since last week's prison fire in which more than 300 prisoners died.

Cut Off Agitators Prison officials were segregating agitators from the docile ones when the shooting started.

Guards stood at the barred partition between the cell-block and the guard room and fired sawed-off shotguns into the range.

Later estimates placed the wounded at 20.

Nat'l Child Health Day Will be May 1st

New York City—The baby and his wants and needs will be featured in the celebration of National Child Health Day on May 1 and Dr. LeRoy A. Wilkes, director of the Division of Medical Service of the American Child Health Association, has prepared some helpful hints for mother.

"Your baby's cries are an index to his physical or nervous condition," says Dr. Wilkes. "At the least they may indicate merely temper, the effort of a spoiled baby to get what he wants when he wants it; or at the worst they may warn you of a serious condition that needs immediate and expert attention. In between those two extremes lies a number of causes which may be making the baby cry in a way which suggests the underlying cause.

"Intermittent cries are of two general types. First, there is the fretful cry of dull pain or discomfort. A hungry baby cries in this way or a baby annoyed by a wet napkin that should be changed or by something in his clothing or bedding which binds him or restrains his freedom of movement. Intermittent, fretful crying may also, however, be the crying of a spoiled baby. In the one set of cases you have a strictly physical condition to deal with and the way to stop the baby's crying is to relieve his minor discomforts. In the last case, you have a question of discipline before you to be solved wisely, kindly and firmly.

"There is another kind of intermittent crying characterized by a low moaning sound. Crying of this sort is often serious, occurring as it does in a condition of semi-consciousness brought on by meningitis, and other severe infections. It occurs also in babies who are exhausted as happens in cases of extreme malnutrition.

"Sudden, loud, persistent and insistent crying accompanied by a flushed red face is one manifestation of a temper-tantrum. A sharp prick from an unprotected pin point, however, will likewise startle a baby into this kind of crying, as will also an earache or a toothache. Bad fright will make him cry like this. It is important to determine the cause and adopt the proper treatment. Pain or fright need very different handling from what you will find it best to give for temper-tantrums.

"Facial grimaces that end in sobbing or shrieks may be due to hurt feelings, disappointment or other emotional disturbances or they may indicate that the baby has been mildly frightened. In any case, they indicate that his emotional balance has been upset and that calm needs to be restored."

REWARDS AND PENALTIES.

This business of handing out rewards and penalties seems, sometimes, to be just a bit too complicated for us benighted mortals to deal with properly.

Some of the things that happened in the Ohio penitentiary fire make a good case in point.

There was, for instance, the guard who had the only key to cells in the top tier of the burning cell block.

He refused to unlock the cells until it was too late. If he had let the prisoners out promptly, when the alarm of fire first reached him, scores of lives would have been saved.

Our tendency is to blame him severely. But consider his position a minute.

There he was, responsible for some scores of convicts. Prison riots in various parts of the country have been numerous lately. His cell block begins to fill with smoke and the convicts demand that they be released. What is he to do?

For all he knows, there may be much smoke and little fire—a smudge, set by the prisoners to force him to open cells. It must have seemed to him that there was at least an even chance that the whose business was just a cleverly devised attempt at a wholesale jail delivery.

If his suspicion had been correct, and he had opened the doors, would he not have come in for severe condemnation?

It isn't quite as easy to pass judgment on that man as it looks on the surface. He was put in a tough position. He made a mistake—but how many of us would have done better, in his place?

Then there is a certain notorious bank robber, a prisoner in that penitentiary, who shone as a hero on the night of the fire. At great risk to himself, he went to the burning cell block and carried out seven convicts. He saved seven lives, in other words, because he was brave enough not to care about his own.

This man has served enough time so that he is technically eligible for a parole. And one's first impulse, on reading of what he did, is to say that he should be given one, at once, as a reward for his daring.

Surely, if a man can earn his right to freedom this man has done so. But there is another side of it. He is an old offender—the kind of man we call a "hardened criminal." If he were freed, the chances are that some bank would be held up within a month. He deserves his freedom, perhaps; but can the state, in simple justice, give it to him?

And there you are. Deciding what is justice for our fellow mortals is a pretty complicated job. Sitting in judgment isn't as easy as it looks.

A DISTINGUISHED RECORD.

You might just keep your eye on Clarence O. Sherill, who has resigned his position as city manager of Cincinnati to become vice president of a grocery and baking company.

A former army officer, Mr. Sherill was made city manager in 1926 when Cincinnati voters threw out the ring that had ruled them for so long. During the succeeding four years Sherill proceeded to give Cincinnati the best administration it ever had. He cut down city expenses, wiped out corrupt politics and ran the city government in the interest of the voters and not the bosses.

All in all, it is a fine record that he made. He's a man to watch. Anyone who can do what he did is the sort of man who ought not to be allowed to stay in private life permanently. Sooner or later he ought to be drafted for some other public position.

WHY NOT COPY FLORIDA?

Florida authorities are trying to padlock Al Capone's winter home at Palm Island, and the stunt suggests to us a certain vagrant thought—

To-wit: what a shame that Chicago is not in Florida.

For, you see, if Capone's winter home is a nuisance, under the meaning of the prohibition act, and can be padlocked—how about the various breweries, bars and distilleries in Chicago that are directed by this astute gangster? Wouldn't it be just barely possible that an alert, honest, energetic government could find some way of applying the same treatment to them?

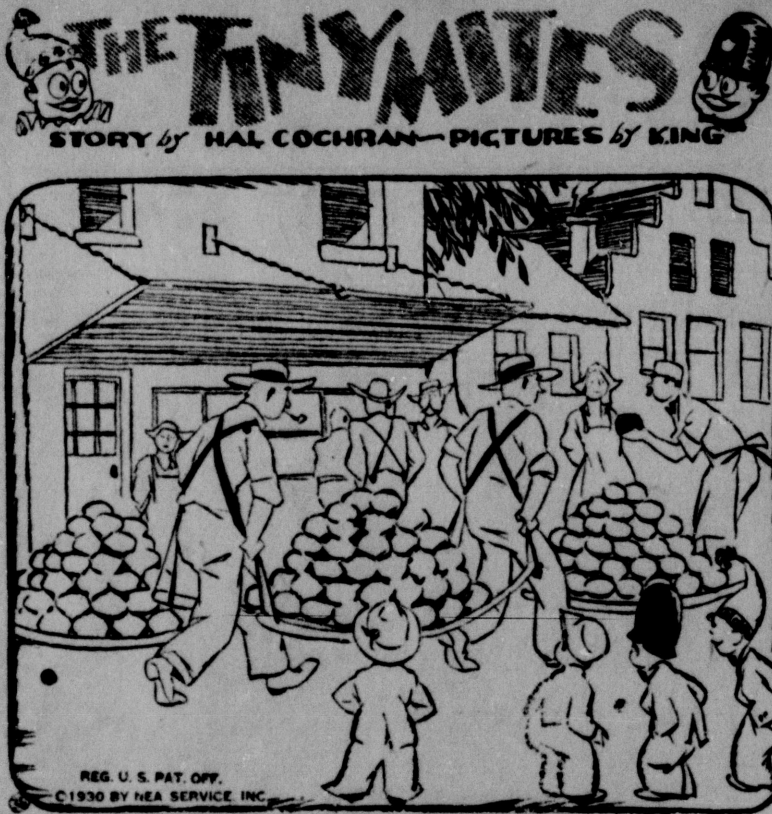

Chicago, without hurting herself, might try taking a leaf from Florida's book.

Say what you will about Chicago, more killings are made on Wall Street.

Around the Zuider Zee they sailed and every passing boat was hailed by all the happy Tynmites. My, but they were having fun. "Most of those boats go out for fish and, honestly, I only wish," exclaimed the friendly Travel Man, "that we could go on one."

"Oh, gee! Why can't we?" Clowny cried. "I know I would be a dandy ride. I'd like to help them catch some fish." The Travel Man then said, "Well, I have other plans in mind. They'll interest you, you will find. I want to land at Edam and we're going right ahead."

"Well, what is Edam? Why go there? Is it a place that's really rare?" said Coppy, and the Travel Man replied, "Now, please don't tease. You'll find what this is all about and you'll enjoy it. I've no doubt. However, I will tell you this, it's where they make fine cheese."

"Oh, goody, goody!" Scouty cried. "Some of that cheese will sure be tried. I hope we can get crackers. Cheese and crackers are so good!" Their escort snapped, "Of course we will! I'll see that you all eat your fill." Then Scouty smiled and finally said, "Oh, I just knew you would!"

They shortly felt their small boat rock and then it pulled up to the dock. "Ah! Here we are. Come, let's jump off!" the Travel Man cried out. "Now to a spot we will all race, where dandy cheese is every place. It's just a big cheese market where the merchants put it out."

They found the market right nearby and Clowny shouted, "My, oh my! I never saw so much fine cheese. Each one is round, and red!" The Travel Man then bought a cheese. Said he, "We'll eat this all, with ease." And then they bought some crackers and a great big loaf of bread.

(The Tynmites see an interesting canal sight in the next story.)

SEIGE OF LIMERICK

On April 29, 1690, William III of England was obliged to end his long siege of Limerick, an important river port near Dublin, Ireland.

The following year, however, another Englishman, Ginkel, conducted a more vigorous campaign against the Irish stronghold. After a brilliant defense of several weeks an armistice was proposed which led to the well known Treaty of Limerick. The terms of the treaty granted amnesty, liberty and other privileges to the Irish Catholics and permission to volunteer in the French service.

The Irish Parliament later insisted that the English ignored the terms of the treaty. The alleged violation of the treaty has been the subject of frequent and bitter controversy between political parties in Ireland. Because of this, Limerick became known as "The City of the Violated Treaty."

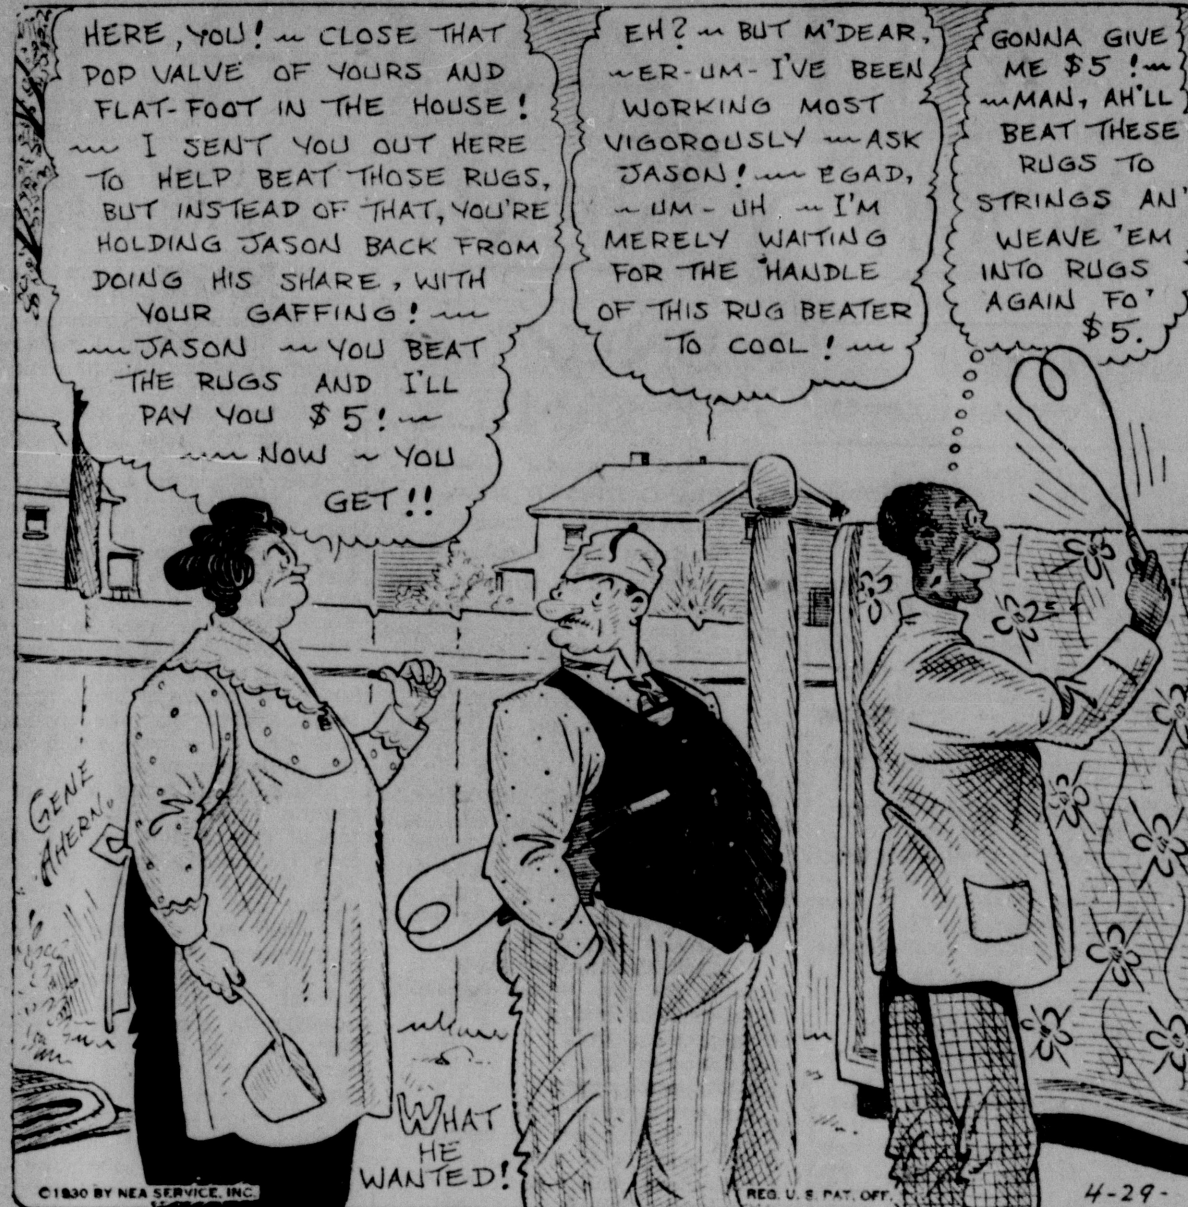

The limerick, as applied to a peculiar form of nonsense verse, is thought to have originated with an Irish brigade which was organized in Limerick in 1691 for service in the French army. When the men returned from foreign service they sang and recited the rhymes now known as the limerick.

GARDENERS MISS LOT IN FAILING TO RAISE MORE

Grow Only One-Third Of Vegetables Soil Is Fitted For

Urbana, Ill.—(AP)—Illinois gardeners are missing the spice of variety by growing only about one-third of the 40 or 50 different kinds of vegetables which are adapted to Illinois soils and climate according to L. A. Somers, of the horticulture department, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

"We become accustomed to a certain salad crop, such as leaf lettuce, and forget that this may be supplemented by the addition of a small amount of the deliciously spiced cress known as pepper and fall months," he said.

"We get started with one kind of greens, such as spinach, and do not learn that mixing this with a small amount of the more tasty mustard greatly improves its flavor or that the New Zealand spinach and Swiss chard are greens that endure the heat of the summer.

"We grow the hardy cabbage and turnips but fail to make the acquaintance of their more delicate cousin, Kohlrabi. We strive, often in vain, to produce the creamy cauliflower and do not learn that the equally delicate Italian green sprouting broccoli is much easier to grow. We raise bushels of the coarser parsnips and overlook the finer salsify. We grow the common onion, but overlook the milder chives which are available very early in spring and the vigorous leeks which may be kept green throughout the winter.

"Just what is a 'new' vegetable? A 'new' vegetable, like the 'explorers' 'new' river—one which he had never seen before—is a vegetable which a given family has never used or raised before although it may have been grown in the same community for years.

"The new kinds of vegetables should not be raised to replace the good, older kinds but rather to supplement them. The other kinds have their value and should by all means be retained, only the variety being changed from time to time as newer or improved strains and varieties are developed. By adding two or three of the new kinds of vegetables each year the gardener will soon have a full list."

SINUSES

By EDWARD KING, M. D., Cincinnati, O.

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. The headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

Most patients have the idea that a sinus infection is confined to the region above the eyes and must be accompanied by headache. As a matter of fact, this frontal sinus is usually the last to be infected. Almost any severe cold is a sinus infection. Patients think a little of pus in the nose, unless the word "sinus" is employed. Then they immediately gasp, "why doctor, I haven't got a sinus infection, have I?"

As a matter of information the frontal sinus (or cavity above the eye) is only one of four sinuses on each side of the head. The ethmoid sinus is a spongy shaped cavity along the side of the eyes. It is partly obscured by a soft covering, but the infection in the nose readily enters under the covering and forms pus. From this cavity the infection travels to the antrum. This sinus is a large opening in the upper jaw, just behind the "cheek bone." From the ethmoid also the germ may travel backward to the sphenoid, a small sinus just behind the ethmoid. Then the infection must go upward through a very small twisted opening in order to reach the frontal sinus. The lining of the nose and sinuses protects them from some germs, but they cannot withstand a severe cold without some help. That is why it is so important to treat a beginning infection before the germ begins to travel. Most often sinus infections do not cause pain or headache, and are overlooked. Probably they are cured by the treatment of the cold, but we must not overlook the danger

Ring of Steel Encircles Ohio Pen as 4000 Convicts Defy Warden

A ring of steel—machine guns and rifles in the hands of 1500 National Guardsmen—encircled the Ohio State Penitentiary at Columbus as 4000 prisoners remained in control of the prison in a state of passive mutiny, refusing to return to work after the disastrous fire in which 320 convicts burned to death and demanding that Governor Cooper remove Warden Preston E. Farmer Hits Trail For Lime, Legumes

Urbana, Ill., April 29.—Determined not to keep a good thing to himself, Charles Anderson, an Iroquois county farmer, is counting on having 17 limestone and legume "converts" to his credit at the end of the season, according to C. M. Linsley, soils extension specialist of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. Himself a believer in the profit-making powers of lime and legume, Anderson has persuaded 17 of his neighbors to go together on a carload of limestone with each one taking from two to four tons. This they will spread on "sour" land where corn is to be planted this year and where small grain and clover will follow next year.

The limestone plots, Linsley explained, will be valuable to the 17 farmers and to their neighbors, as well, in proving the value of limestone for growing clovers and the value of clover on grain crops which follow. The idea is part of the program which the Iroquois County Farm Bureau is carrying on in cooperation with the agricultural college extension service to promote the use of limestone and the growing of legumes for soil improvement.

The plan was decided upon a year ago this spring. At a meeting of the 19 soil project leaders of the county, it was decided that each leader would attempt to get a num-

Here is the proof that convinced these "Doubting Thomas" experts

LESS THAN the ordinary wear was found in the pistons after a 9000-mile test run with this improved motor oil—New Iso-Vis.

TEST TUBE EVIDENCE was shown to the experts. Then the results of hundreds of engine tests in the laboratory. This supporting evidence was enough to easily convince the ordinary man that New Iso-Vis has decided advantages over any other motor oil. But the experts said, "Now show us a real test of thousands of miles!"

So this engine had been rushed through a test of 9,000 miles... equal to a year's mileage of most cars. Now, measuring would show how New Iso-Vis had protected the moving parts. This, after all, is the actual test of an oil.

A micrometer was applied to the various parts. Everywhere the wear was less than normal. The bearing wear, for instance, had been less than 1/1000 of an inch. The engine was in as good condition as when it started on the long run. The experts were convinced.

The reasons for the high lubricating value of New Iso-Vis have been proved to be as follows:

1. New Iso-Vis will not thin out in the crankcase. It is made proof against dilution trouble by a special patented process.

2. New Iso-Vis cuts carbon formation to less than half the average of various premium-priced oils.

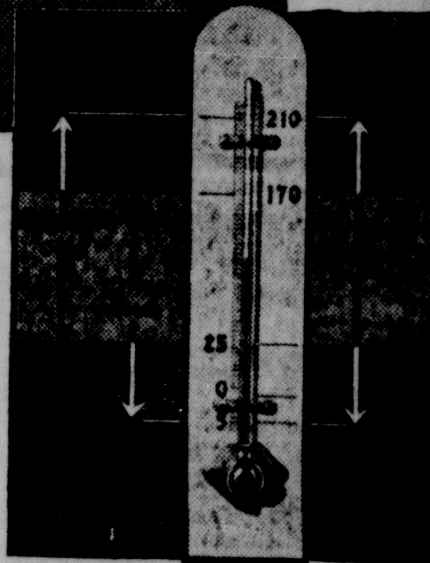

YOU SEE here on the right the carbon formed by New Iso-Vis. It is 50 per cent less than the average of various premium-priced oils.

It is Wholly Distilled and contains no undistilled parts of the crude.

3. New Iso-Vis continues to lubricate effectively at engine temperatures far above normal. Yet its lubricating range goes as low as so-called "winter oils".

You will find the proof of these facts in the longer life of your car and its better performance when you run it on New Iso-Vis. This new type oil was put on the market only last March. Have your crankcase drained, flushed and refilled with New Iso-Vis at any Standard Oil dealer or service station.

SOME OILS are satisfactory at high temperatures but not at low. The reverse is true of other oils. New Iso-Vis tests your engine at both extremes.

New ISO-VIS Motor Oil

The New Polarine also is produced by our new refining processes—giving it a degree of lubricating efficiency which we believe is exceeded only by the New Iso-Vis. The price is 25c a quart.

FUNDS PROVIDED TO RESUME T. B. TESTS IN STATE

The Federal Government Is Allotting Additional Money To Illinois

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—(UP)—An additional allotment of $80,000 has been granted by the Federal government to enable the State Department of Agriculture to continue testing to detect tuberculosis among cattle in the northern half of Illinois according to an announcement by Governor L. L. Emmerson today.

Suspension two weeks ago of tests of herds in the upper Illinois counties was necessary when it became apparent that Illinois would have to pay the Federal government's share of the indemnity allowances unless additional funds were forthcoming in Washington.

With this allotment the total received by Illinois for the elimination of bovine tuberculosis has been increased to $680,000 according to a communication of the funds issued by D. W. Dixon, superintendent of animal industry. All of this plus a like amount from the state treasury, the law shows, will be allotted to the owners of condemned cattle within a year ending June 30, 1930.

Two million dollars has been appropriated by the state for the two year period following July 1 last, while the Federal government has allotted Illinois $400,000 for the year ending June 30 next.

Among those who have agreed to participate is Dean C. F. Curtis, of Ames, Ia., who will judge short horn cattle. Curtis is the best known livestock man in the United States and Canada. He has been three times president of the Great International Livestock Show at Chicago.

Curtis has officiated at many of the country's leading shows, and has been called to South America as judge of its greatest livestock exhibition.

Curtis has officiated at many of the country's leading shows, and has been called to South America as judge of its greatest livestock exhibition.

Thomas Cross, head cattle buyer for Armour and Company of Chicago, and who probably buys more cattle in the course of a year than any other man in the world, will judge the fat steers, and the 4-H club calves. Livestock men regard Cross as foremost in his class.

Berkshire hogs will be judged by J. Barker, the present manager of the Indiana State Fair at Indianapolis, and who has judged a number of America's leading hogs.

F. W. Harding, general executive of the American Shorthorn association at Chicago, will judge Polled Shorthorns, being recalled because of his excellent work in the same division at last year's state fair, when the fair had the greatest showing of polled shorthorns ever seen in this country. Harding is owner of the great bull, "White Hall Sultan."

Dr. C. W. Campbell of the Agricultural College, Manhattan, Kansas, will judge the draft horse entries. He is reputed to be one of the best known stock men west of the Missouri river.

C. R. Taylor, importer, exhibitor and nationally known judge of draft horses from Williamsville, will also judge horses. Red polled cattle will be judged by Joseph Kestel, Manhattan, also a nationally known expert. Prof. H. P. Rusk, University of Illinois, Urbana, will again score Hereford cattle.

Weekly Review of Agriculture by Farmers Paper

Chicago.—A few symptoms of recovery from business depression which has had an adverse influence on agriculture in the last six months are becoming apparent, the Prairie Farmer's report of market conditions said. Moderate seasonal expansion in activity has appeared in some branches of industry and trade. Conditions appear to favor a further recovery, especially after another month or two. Prices indexes for sensitive commodities turned upward early in April, the first upswing since last summer.

"Sluggish demand for beef and less active demand for stock cattle prevailed over light receipts of cattle in the third week of April," the report said, "carrying top and bulk prices for steers at Chicago to new low levels of the year, so the main trend has been downward since late last July. Average prices of stockers and feeders at Chicago are about $1.50 lower than a year ago. With feeders and grains selling for less than last year, finishing cattle for the fall market is likely to be more profitable than in 1929.

"The seasonal increase in receipts is due to show up in the next four to six weeks. Domestic demand is restricted by the employment situation which has not improved much as yet. Stocks of hog products in storage are smaller than a year ago.

"The early bulge in April lamb prices was of short duration as increased receipts were attracted by the upturn and the market sank back to practically the lowest level of the season. A better market may develop soon, however, as most of the excess in supplies of fed lamb had been marketed.

"Confidence in the wool market seems to be increasing. Wheat prices lost most of their late March and early April gains when rains arrived over most of the dry areas in both the Southwest and Northwest. Drought has not been entirely relieved and the course of the market during the remainder of the season will hinge largely on the weather. World visible and invisible supplies of wheat are considered to be about 2,000,000 bushels less than at this time a year ago.

"Prices for feed grains broke rather sharply with wheat during the past week. Stocks of corn at terminals are light and inferences drawn from the number of livestock coming to market and the numbers reported on feed is that farm consumption is very heavy. The new crop outlook will be a factor in the market right along.

"Shipments of hay last week were small and the market was steady to higher.

"The movement of eggs to the four leading markets continues in excess of the corresponding period a week ago in spite of early opening of the season. Storage holdings on April 1 in the entire country were 1,630,000 cases larger than on the same date a year ago. Holdings of frozen poultry on April 1 were 36,921,000 pounds larger than a year ago and 20 per cent larger than the five-year average on that date.

"The butter market has held fairly steady during the past week although the nearness of the period when production can be expected to increase rapidly has caused dealers to operate on a cautious basis. The surplus of storage butter as compared with a year ago was reduced 10 million pounds during March. Most of the storage butter is held in strong hands and will not be pressed on to the market."

What the Farmer Can Do to Learn About His Soils

One who owns or is interested in farm lands is always willing to learn the needs of his soils. Careful observation of the soil itself and of the behavior of the crops which grow upon it will reveal much of interest and value to every farmer. First of all it should be stated that it is worth while for one to learn something of the characteristics of his soils to a greater depth than that usually reached by the plow. The character of the lower levels of the soil is often as important as that of the surface, and may be of even greater importance. In some cases the character of the subsurface or subsoil determines the productiveness of the land.

A dark colored-surface soil indicates a larger amount of organic matter though light colored soils. This is important, since organic matter is necessary in maintaining conditions favorable to good crop growth. Organic matter which will decay rapidly in the soil is particularly valuable for stimulating bacterial activity and liberating materials necessary for crop growth.

100% PURE BARLEY MALT

The Big 3 Lb. Can That's Blatz!

For this reason periodical addition to the soil of farm manure, crop residues, or clover sod, on the growing of a crop especially for green manure and plowing it down, are not merely good farm practice, but are necessary if the condition of the soil for good crop production is to be maintained permanently.

A yellow or reddish yellow color in the subsurface and subsoil means that it is properly supplied with air—another essential condition in productive soils. On the other hand an unhealthy condition is indicated by a gray blue color, the soil often appearing mottled.

For the growth of the most desirable agricultural crops, soils must not be acid. Large areas in Illinois are acid and should be given applications of lime. Usually two or more tons to an acre are required, depending upon the degree of acidity. Lime requirements of different soils vary to a great extent and a test for lime should be taken before it is applied. Sweet clover and alfalfa will not thrive on acid soils, and the growth made by them is one of the most reliable indications as to the need for limestone.

Planting On Rise Despite Decrease In World Demand

BY FRANK I. WELLER

(Associated Press Farm Editor)

Washington.—(AP)—Unless bad weather or some other factor interferes with the farmer's intention to plant, the crop acreage in 1930 will be about 2 per cent larger than last year's.

This estimate, prepared by the bureau of agricultural economics, does not include cotton. The Federal Farm Board is supporting a determined campaign to slice 5,000,000 acres off the usual cotton acreage.

As compared with acreages reported last year reports from 50,000 farmers indicate a 3 per cent increase in corn, 2½ in oats, 27 in flax, 12 in rice, 8 in grain sorghums, 3 in potatoes, 8 in sweet potatoes, 3 in tobacco and 15 per cent in beans.

Presumably the durum wheat acreage will be reduced 15 per cent and the peanut acreage 5 per cent. The intended acreage of hay and spring wheat other than durum is about the size of last year's.

Farmers carried over into the new season a moderate stock of food and feed crops, which was encouraging in itself, but agricultural economists are generally agreed on the risk involved by the declining commodity markets of early spring and the feeling of economic uncertainty.

Secretary Hyde warns that production already is running ahead of world requirements.

George E. Roberts, vice president of the National City Bank of New York, says that an attempt to maintain the same population on the farms will mean an increasing surplus of products accompanied by falling prices.

Expansion of capacity to produce, he says, has resulted in fewer persons being needed on farms.

AUTHORITIES ON LIVE STOCK TO JUDGE AT FAIR

State Fair Announces Plans For Coming Exposition

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—(AP)—

Judges for the 1930 Illinois state fair have been recruited from among the leading livestock authorities in the United States. Milton E. Jones, general manager of the fair, pointed out today in announcing the names of men who will select prize winners from cattle exhibited at the exposition.

Among them is Dean C. F. Curtis, of Ames, Iowa, who will judge short-horn cattle. Dean Curtis is one of the best known livestock men in the United States and Canada. He has been three times president of the Great International Livestock Show at Chicago, which is considered the foremost show of its kind in the world.

In his long career as a judge, Dean Curtis has officiated at many of the country's leading shows, and has been called to South America as a judge at its greatest livestock exposition.

Thomas Cross, head cattle buyer for Armour and Company, of Chicago, who probably buys more cattle in the course of a year than any other man in the world, will judge the fat steers and the 4-H club calves. Livestock men regard M

Cross as foremost in his class.

Berkshire hogs will be judged by E. J. Barker, the present manager of the Indiana State Fair at Indianapolis, and who has judged at a number of America's leading shows.

F. W. Harding, general executive for the American Shorthorn Association at Chicago, will judge Polled Shorthorns, being recalled because of his excellent work in the same division at last year's state fair, when the fair had the greatest showing of polled shorthorns ever seen in this country. Harding is owner of the great bull, "White Hall Sultan."

Dr. C. W. Campbell of the Agricultural College, Manhattan, Kansas, will judge the draft horses entries. He is reputed to be one of the best known stock men west of the Missouri river.

From the East, Prof. D. J. Kays, University of Ohio, Columbus, Ohio, will be recalled again this year to assist in the judging. Professor Kays had the draft horses last year.

C. R. Taylor, importer, exhibitor, and nationally known judge of draft horses from Williamsville, Ill., will also judge horses. Red polled cattle will be judged by Joseph Kestel, Manhattan, Illinois, also a nationally known expert. Prof. H. P. Rusk, University of Illinois, Urbana, who has judged Herefords at the American Royal, the Chicago International, and leading state fairs of America, will again score Hereford Cattle at the Illinois State Fair.

WATER GARDEN VOGUE PROVING HIGHLY POPULAR

Pools Should Be Given Attention At Once Expert States

Urbana, Ill., April 29.—Water gardens are having a run of popularity which is growing every year, according to H. B. Dörner, chief in floriculture at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. Sizes vary all the way from tubs or half barrels sunk into the ground up to cemented pools and ponds.

"Water gardeners who have not already attended to their pools should do so at once. Where the plants have very restricted root space, as in tubs or in boxes in the pool, the plants should be removed, the old soil taken out and the plants reset in fresh soil. Water lilies are good feeders and use up all the food material in a season's growth. A good garden loam, to which has been added a fourth of rotted cattle manure and a liberal sprinkling of bone meal, makes the best soil. If the manure is not to be had, a good garden loam can be used with a liberal dressing of bone. Those who do not have a good loam will profit by having a florist prepare the proper soil.

"If lily plants must be bought, the smaller growing of the hardy varieties should be selected for the tub or small pool. The tender varieties are all stronger growing and take more space. A good selection from the older varieties includes Marliacea alba for white, Marliacea rosea for pink and Marliacea chromata for yellow. Blue water lilies may be had only in the tender varieties.

"Another advantage of the hardy forms is that they may be left out over the winter. They may be planted at any time in the spring, whereas the tender varieties must not be put out until the water is quite warm which is sometime in June in this section.

"It is not necessary to have running water. In fact, too much water running into the pool keeps it too cold for the proper development of the lilies. While water lilies may be grown in less than six inches of water, they will do better if there is about twelve inches above the crown of the plant. It is always well to have a few goldfish in the pool to keep down the breeding of mosquitoes.

"Water plants such as cat-tails, arrow leaf and other bog plants should not be used about the pool unless provision has been made to keep the soil saturated. The edge of the average cemented pool is much better suited to low growing garden flowers, both annuals and herbaceous perennials, than for bog plants."

Value State-Aid To 4-H Clubs Proven

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—(UP)—Value of state aid to the 4-H clubs in Illinois is emphasized as a constructive service for the benefit of agriculture by Governor L. L. Emmerson in a State Department of Agriculture pamphlet, just off the press.

"The destiny of the state rests with them," Emmerson says. Through the aid being extended to the 4-H clubs, I believe that the state is performing a constructive service for the benefit of agriculture. "Exhibitions of livestock, poultry, grain and other products developed by the boys and girls on the farms of Illinois teach them to become better farmers."

"In keeping with the policy of Illinois to foster farm and home improvement projects, the 4-H club exhibit act and related legislation from a practical educational program along constructive lines.

"Premiums stimulate endeavors to attain perfection. Through the department of agriculture, this administration proposes to do its utmost to further the work of the 4-H clubs of Illinois."

During 1929, according to a report contained in the pamphlet, the state distributed $23,635.76 to 4-H clubs shows in 86 counties. The report classifies the premiums as follows:

Calf shows	$15,681.03
Pig shows	8,668.69
Sheep shows	1,036.45
Poultry	1,218.50
Misc. Exhibits	2,368.48
Home Economics	142.50
Total	$33,625.34

The appropriation for this purpose for 1929 and 1930 was $80,000 set aside from funds collected from the licensed race tracks. The amount distributed as reimbursement for the exhibits held last year—$23,635.76, leaves $56,364.24 available to reimburse the exhibits to be held this season. The maximum allowable to each county is $525.

CAMPAIGN FOR BETTER EGGS; PRICES PLAN

State Dept. To Launch Drive To Benefit Poultrymen

Springfield, Ill.—(UP)—A campaign for better eggs and better prices for producers which will benefit both the farmers, who have eggs to sell, and consumers is being planned by the State Department of Agriculture and cooperating agencies, according to an announcement today by Stuart E. Pierson, director of the department.

"Poultry flock owners of Illinois," Pierson said, "are entitled to receive as much for eggs as do the poultrymen of other states. This can best be brought about by complete compliance with the laws that govern the marketing of eggs."

"The law states clearly that the first receiver must candle all the eggs he buys, and place certificates in every case that goes to market. If this were done, the eggs unfit for human food would seldom reach the market to dull the public's appetite for eggs, and thus cut down the price."

The department plans, as a feature of the egg campaign, to hold egg-candling demonstrations in every Illinois county.

Representatives of the pure food forces, under the supervision of Perry B. McCullough, head of the division of foods and dairies, will be directed to work with local leaders in assembling the poultry farmers in the necessity of candling eggs to meet requirements of the law and the importance of that plan of quality insurance and its benefits to producers and consumers alike, will be stressed at these meetings.

The director, in his statement, pointed out that there are about 10,000 licensed egg dealers in Illinois, and that to check the egg buying transactions is a task that requires cooperation on the part of the producers, who realize the indirect advantage through complete compliance with the law. Pierson in a letter invited suggestions from all interested in egg production, marketing and consumption, for the purpose of effecting improvement in the egg business in Illinois.

VISIBLE GRAIN SUPPLY

New York, April 29.—(AP)—The visible supply of American grain shows the following changes in bushels: wheat decreased 3,404,000; corn decreased 1,950,000; oats decreased 263,000; rye decreased 273,000; barley decreased 239,000.

POULTRY and EGGS QUALITY PAYS

Without a doubt there will be more poultry and eggs marketed this year than ever before. This heavy production means lower prices. We cannot set the price on poultry and eggs, but we can always top the market if we have quality. The farmers can and should cut the cost of production.

Good feed and care will produce more eggs at less cost from your laying flock and makes faster and more economical growth in your young chickens. The flock—either laying or growing—that is full fed a proper ration at all times, and is properly cared for will be far more profitable than the flock that is underfed and neglected. Most laying flocks are neglected at this time of year.

We admit that all hens lay at this time, whether they are properly managed or not, but those that are not full feeding now will find that their egg production will be cut off in June or July, and if you wait until egg production ceases or stops before you start feeding it will take several weeks to build your flock up to production again.

It is hard to start a flock laying in mid-summer after it has once quit on account of improper care and feed.

The same thing that has happened in the past will again happen this year—about two hundred farmers who have properly managed their flocks will furnish us with all the eggs we receive during late summer and fall (at high prices) and the other eight hundred who are now selling to us will not be getting eggs.

Good feed and care not only cuts costs of production but also produces quality. More than five million farms in the U. S. produce eggs. All are competing with one another in production costs. If one farm, or group of farms produce eggs as a cost of ten cents per dozen, and it costs others twenty cents per dozen, of course the latter is eventually going to be eliminated as a poultry raiser.

We are trying our best at all times to work with the poultry producers, so as to make him more profit and get a fair return on our investment. This can be done with close co-operation. We are different than some other lines of small business, in that we expect to give as good or better service and as good or better prices than others, or we expect to lose house. We do not expect all the poultry and egg business, but we do know there are enough farmers in this section who are willing to co-operate with and support a firm that is fair. There are crooks and cranks among farmers as well as among other classes. There are farmers who know more about grading, also markets, than we do. There are very few of these and we do not expect their business.

Care of Eggs on Farm

known by all—the producer, the receiver, the retailer and the consumer, and in turn they all handled them as they do other perishables, egg consumption would probably double.

Practically all eggs are of equal good quality when first laid. But if they are to retain their new laid quality the producer must give them proper care and handling. There is no process which can improve an egg of poor quality. All that can be done is to preserve the original quality.

Eggs must be gathered often, kept in a cool place and delivered often. Eggs that are kept on back porches, sheds, or in the house will not grade unless delivered every forty-eight hours.

The producer who sells to a straight run buyer has one advantage. He certainly does not have to give the eggs any care and he can get this same price for all eggs whether good or bad.

The farmers must work for more and better prices from the same flock, and more and better meat from the growing flock. Then he should market his different grades to the buyer who pays the best prices for the different grades. Lee county poultry and eggs are noted for their quality on the eastern markets but there is still room for improvement. Let's make it bigger and better and more profitable.

Baseball Summary

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
In the face of expert opinion that said they would be lucky to finish any higher than seventh place, Walter Johnson's Washington Senators continue to set a dizzy pace to lead the American League.
No one can say, of course, where the Senators will finish, but the fact remains that they are playing heads-up baseball. The club has been fielding brilliantly, hitting opportunely and Johnson has shown rare judgment in juggling his pitchers.
Yesterday's 6-5 victory over the New York Yankees was the Senators' ninth in eleven games and their seventh in a row. Washington took an early lead and then held on to it in the face of a Yankee rally in the later frames. Cronin drove in three runs with a home run, triple and double.
The Chicago White Sox moved up into second place with a 9-7 triumph over Detroit. Carl Reynolds hit a home run, triple and single, his homer with Lyons on base in the seventh, really deciding the contest. The Sox got only eight hits to 14 for the Tigers but made full use of them.
The St. Louis Browns could get only five hits off the offerings of Pete Jablonowski, American Association recruit, and Cleveland won, 3 to 1.
Wildness on the part of McFayden and Morris and fielding errors by O. Miller and Regan enabled the Philadelphia Athletics to score four runs in the ninth without a hit and beat the Boston Red Sox, 5-4.
In the National League the New York Giants lost their first game of the season, bowing to Brooklyn, 6 to 4 when Harvey Hendrick doubled with the bases filled in the ninth. The defeat broke Bill Walker's string of 11 straight victories run up during the latter part of 1929 and this season. Travis Jackson of the Giants hit his fifth home run of the year.
Four home runs, two by Gabby Hartnett and the others by Charley Root and Cliff Heathcote, enabled Chicago's Cubs to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-4. Root was touched for 11 hits but tightened up in the pinches and fanned nine men.
The St. Louis Cardinals took advantage of eight bases on balls and whipped Cincinnati, 8 to 3. Clarence Mitchell, Card pitcher, suffered an ankle injury in the fourth inning and had to retire. Bell finished for the winners.
The Phillies concentrated their hitting in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings to beat the Boston Braves, 7 to 4.

JONES' WALKER CUP PLAYERS TO SAIL TOMORROW

American Golfers Are In New York Ready To Start Argosy

New York, April 29.—(AP)—Seven of America's eight Walker Cup golf representatives had gathered here today and the eighth was no further away than Washington.

With their departure on the Mauretania set for tomorrow afternoon, Bobby Jones, captain of the invading expedition; Francis Ouimet, Don Moe and Dr. O. F. Willing all arrived in town yesterday to join three other members of the team, Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, national amateur champion, George Von Elm and George Voight. The eighth member of the squad, Roland MacKenzie, is expected from Washington today or tomorrow.

Whatever other members of the team may decide to do, Jones will play no golf here.

"I have been playing much more golf this winter than usual," he said, "and do not feel the need of additional play until we get over there. We will have no team practice or anything of that sort here. There will be plenty of time for that when we get to England."

Jones believes that the Americans will have a real battle on their hands when they meet the British cup players May 15 and 16.

He said that the squad would play no other team match in England and that he probably would restrict his golf to the Walker Cup matches. The British amateur and open championships and possibly only one other tournament in England.

The Walker Cup matches will be held at Sandwich, the British amateur at St. Andrews May 26 to 31, and the open at Hoylake from June 16 to 21.

RECEIPTS FROM TOURNEYS WILL BE DISTRIBUTED

Board Of Control Of Assn. Seeks New Division Plan

Chicago, April 29.—(AP)—The Board of Control of the Illinois State High School Athletic Association has instructed Manager C. W. Whitten to prepare a revised method for distributing receipts from basketball tournaments supervised by the association.

The action was taken after Whitten had made his financial report on tournaments held this year, which revealed gross receipts of $37,544.28. He reported certain expenses must be paid out of the money, but the remaining amount would be sufficient to establish the reserve fund authorized by the board, and to pay budget expenses for the year.

The new plan of distributing the money will embody two features:
1. The taking for the state association only sufficient money, which will be revenue from other sources will meet the annual budget.

2. Provide for a graduated scale so that the proportion taken by the association will be smaller in tournaments in which receipts are small.
Under the proposed plan, if receipts are as great next year, from $12,000 to $15,000 more will be distributed among competing schools.

TWO HELD FOR MURDER OF TWO CONN. BROTHERS

Oklahoma Authorities Seek Solution Of Mystery Crime

Muskogee, Okla., April 29.—(UP)—Charged with murder and held under guard during the night in their hotel suite adjoining the rooms where two brothers had been slain, P. G. Seelye and John Wike, both of Connecticut, were subjected today to a severe grilling by county authorities. The murder charges were filed against the two men last night after they had been questioned for two days in connection with the killing Saturday night of George Smith of West Cornwall, Conn., and his brother, David Smith of Sharon, Conn. Seelye, reputedly wealthy citizen of Washington, Conn., and Wike of Sharon, Conn., admitted that they had accompanied the Smiths here from the east to inspect Oklahoma property.

Wike told investigating officers that he had been two masked men enter the rooms occupied by the brothers. He declared a scuffle ensued and that after firing several shots the men ran from the room.
The theory of robbery as a motive for the slayings was discarded by the authorities when it was found that none of the belongings of the Smiths had been touched.

ONE DAY ONLY

No Charge for Consultation

Dr. Dieterich is a regular graduate in medicine and surgery and is licensed by the state of Illinois. He visits professionally the more important towns and cities and offers to all who call on this trip free consultation, except the expense of treatment when desired.

According to his method of treatment he does not operate for chronic appendicitis, gall stones, ulcers of stomach or enlarged tonsils.

He has to his credit wonderful results in diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels, blood, skin, nerves, heart, kidneys, bladder, bed wetting, catarrh, weak lungs, rheumatism, sciatica, leg ulcers and rectal ailments.

If you have been ailing for any length of time and do not get any better, do not fail to call, as improper measures rather than disease are very often the cause of your long standing trouble.

Remember above date, that consultation on this trip will be free and that his treatment is different.

MARRIED WOMEN MUST BE ACCOMPANIED BY THEIR HUSBANDS, AND MINORS BY THEIR PARENTS.

Address: 322 Boston Block, Minneapolis, Minn.

10-round battle here last night. One of the judges scored Loughran as the winner and the other voted for a draw.

The verdict of Referee Leo Houck precipitated a noisy demonstration on the part of the fans. Police were called to disperse the crowd. Most of the fans declared that Loughran should have gotten no worse than a draw.

Coming on the heels of his knock-out at the hands of Jack Sharkey last summer, the defeat, in the opinion of experts, has lowered Loughran's heavyweight prospects materially.

A year ago Loughran, then holder of the light heavyweight title, won a decision over Schaaf in Boston. But last night he found the Boston job a greatly improved fighter. There were no knockdowns, but there were many hard blows exchanged and both men were bleeding from cuts on the face and over the eyes.

ERRORGRAMS

DAD, IF THE PRESIDENT DIES OR RESIGNS WHO TAKES HIS OFFICE?

THE ORDER OF SUCCESSION IS FIRST THE VICE-PRESIDENT, THEN THE PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE, THEN THE SECRETARY OF WAR, AND THEN — BUT IF YOU LOOK UP THE QUESTION IN NATURAL HISTORY YOU'LL FIND THAT NO SUCH EXTREME EMERGENCY HAS EVER AROSE.

Thos's Scrambled

It's never artificial.

(Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it. Tomorrow we'll explain the mistake and tell you the word. Then you can see how near a hundred you bat.

MONDAY'S CORRECTIONS
(1) The general belief that ostriches hide their heads in the sand when frightened is not true. (2) The ostriches shown are African instead of South American, as the former have three toes and the latter two. (3) Ostriches is spelled incorrectly on the signboard. (4) Ostriches do not have wattles. (5) The scrambled word is ASSASSINATION.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

NATALIE CONVERSE tries to conquer her jealousy over her husband, ALAN. But when he receives a call to the home of BERNADINE LAMONT, a popular night club hostess, she demands that he refuse to go. He leaves, after explaining that Bernadine is the widow of a war buddy who had saved his life.

The actress surprises Alan by saying that her doctor has given her only a short time to live and is requesting him to take care of her son, BOBBY. He promises and tries to tell Natalie but her refusal to believe him. He confides in his secretary, PHILIPPA WEST, who has been waiting for this opportunity to further her own schemes.

When Natalie next comes to the office, Philippa manages to tell her about helping pick out toys for "darling Bobby" and shows a letter from Bernadine in which she tells Natalie to be reconciled. Natalie leaves in a rage without explaining and Alan follows, hoping for a reconciliation, but her accusations drive him back to the office and find Philippa there.

After working several hours, Alan takes her to dinner and then home where she manages to convey the impression of being the generous lady Bountiful to the poor neighbor family.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER X

OVER Philippa's desk, and over Philippa, a young man was bent in an attitude that struck Alan dis- agreeably. He seemed to be paying her a flattering attention.

As a matter of fact, Philippa had been openly encouraging him. And Geoffrey Norman was a young man of highly chivalrous character. It made him vastly uncomfortable when a girl encouraged him—it he happened not to care for her. And Philippa was far from being the type of girl he cared for. Neither did he like her as an individual.

His ideal was Natalie Converse. He was fiercely, but at all times silently, envious of Alan. Natalie might have guessed he was devoted to her, but he was very young. She called it puppy love—was under standing and sympathetic. Natalie smiled over it at odd moments, and was glad that Geoffrey didn't write notes to her.

There had been a brief period when Philippa had dreamed of being the right girl in Geoffrey's life. It was shortly after she'd come to work for Alan, at a time when she'd lost faith in her power to attract her employer. Alan and Natalie had made up after a quarrel, and Philippa began to think that this time it might "take."

She'd turned to Geoffrey. He was a good-looking boy, slender, black hair and blue eyes. Heir to a fortune. Philippa's interest embarrassed him. He was glad when it subsided. Aside from Alan being his broker, they were friends. Geoffrey liked to drop in occasionally. Philippa saw where she might someday use him, and didn't quite give up her pursuit. While it was passive, Geoffrey tolerated it.

He looked up now, saw Alan, and turned away from Philippa with relief.

ALAN came over and rather coolly took him into the private office. "What's on your mind?" he said snappishly.

Geoffrey regarded him with interest. He was sorry for Alan. He knew he often had a quarrel with

"Really, Geoffrey, are you telling the truth?"

Natalie. But he did not know the cause. Natalie's obsession had never come directly under his observation. He supposed the trouble was Alan's fault. Nevertheless, he was sorry for him. To quarrel with Natalie must be blasting, he thought.

Once his mother had observed after a musing study of him, that she thought it possible he was seeing too much of older women.

"Older women?" Geoffrey's surprise was genuine.

"Yes," his mother had said very soberly; "the wives of your friends, Geoffrey. They all seem to be older than you." She sighed there. "I suppose that's because you were precocious and got on too fast at school. But I wish you would pay more attention to boys and girls of your own age."

"Nonsense, Mother. My friends aren't old."

"Well . . . I don't like to think that you might possibly be disturbing another man's peace of mind, Geoffrey. I think you have too little to do. Perhaps you had better come to France with me this year."

"Meaning?"

"Some of your friends, one in particular, are much too charming, my son. I think you should come to France with me."

Geoffrey had no difficulty guessing the friend she referred to was Natalie. Thereafter he but his attachment even deeper, a tried to hide it from his mother's eyes. She grew more concerned about it, and decided to see the matter if it could be arranged.

It was she who had sent Geoffrey to enter private business. The de- tailing of Avis to handle the New Jersey situation only until July 1 indicated that the Treasury expects the prohibition enforcement problem to be transferred to the Department of Justice by that time.

lunched by a group of eight men who according to Deputy Sheriff Robinson, snatched the prisoner away last night, while he was taking him to Bartow, for safekeeping. Robinson arrested Hodaz here late yesterday. Davis, who lives about a mile from the scene of the lynching, discovered the body as he entered the woods to cut railroad ties. It was suspended about five feet from the ground. Dr. B. C. Meighan examined the body and reported it had been pierced many times with pistol bullets and three times with shotgun

There was nothing languid in the way Geoffrey followed his suggestion. At the other end of the con- vention a maid went to call Natalie the telephone. But when she answered, Geoffrey asked: "Is that u, Natalie? What? Oh, your ice sounds strange."

Small wonder. It was almost the time Natalie had spoken since she left the house. Her throat still tight with pain.

GAS PAINS GONE STOMACH FINE SINCE TAKING KAVATONE

"Thanks to This Marvelous Preparation, I am Now Feeling Better Than I Ever Did," Says Happy Man.

What is the secret of Kavatone's amazing power to go to the very source of ills and ailments in so short a time? Why is it that Kavatone in so short a time has become the most talked of medicine in America? These and similar questions are constantly being asked of the Kavatone Man and he is glad to answer them because it is this constant talk that has spread the fame of this medicine far and wide.

J. ROY MICKLEY.

To all who ask the Kavatone Man explains that Kavatone is made from a combination of mother nature's own roots, herbs, barks and blossoms, and that because of these ingredients and the manner in which they are combined Kavatone works right hand in hand with nature in eliminating poisons and impurities from the system and in so doing helps to revive and rejuvenate the functioning organs of the body. Daily scores of people call at the store where the Kavatone Man is located to tell of their experiences in the belief that it may help others who suffer. One of the most recent callers was J. Roy Mickley, widely known farmer, living at R. R. No. 1, Tampico, Illinois. To the Kavatone Man Mr. Mickley said: "Before taking Kavatone I suffered terribly with pains in lower intestinal region and in the small of my back. I could hardly ever eat a meal without suffering for a long while after with gas pains which made me feel miserable. Headaches too added to my agony, and mornings upon arising I would have a bad taste in my mouth and my tongue would be coated. I had heard and read so much about Kavatone that I decided to try this medicine. I talked to the Kavatone Man about my condition and he told me of other people, right here in Dixon, who had suffered as I did, and who had found relief in Kavatone. I had taken but one bottle of this wonderful medicine, when I noticed that I could eat better, and the food agreed with me. I did not have any more gas pains, or headaches, and those terrible pains in the small of my back disappeared. I am certainly glad I decided to give Kavatone a trial, for now I am free from all the aches and pains I had suffered for years and I am gaining in weight and strength. I heartily and conscientiously praise Kavatone for what it has done for me."

The Kavatone Man is at the Ford Hopkins Drug Store, Dixon, Ill., where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this great preparation. The famous Kavatone figure, an ingenious human torso showing every organ of the body, is used in this demonstration and everyone is cordially invited to see and study this figure, an experience which will be interesting and instructive.

OHIO NEWS

Ohio—The Ohio school band made its initial public appearance in a concert given on the street Wednesday evening. Several selections were played in a very able and pleasing manner and were enthusiastically applauded by the large crowd present. These young musicians, twenty-two in number, most all of whom are pupils from the fifth to the eighth grades, have taken only seventeen lessons and made a most creditable showing, reflecting just credit to their director, Professor Vernon Golsar. Immediately after the concert the band marched to the opera house where they played two more numbers preceding the junior class play "The Whole Town's Talking," which was given in a very capable manner before a large and appreciative audience. Too much
